THE KINDReD ASSOCIATION

Together, we will win against neglected infectious diseases

Infectious diseases are considered neglected when relatively little attention is devoted to their surveillance, prevention and treatment.

The drugs currently used for treatment were developed decades ago and have serious limitations due to cost, complexity, toxicity or lack of efficacy.

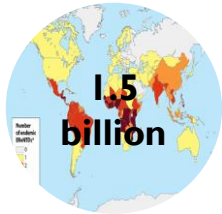

Number of millions of people suffering from Chagas disease

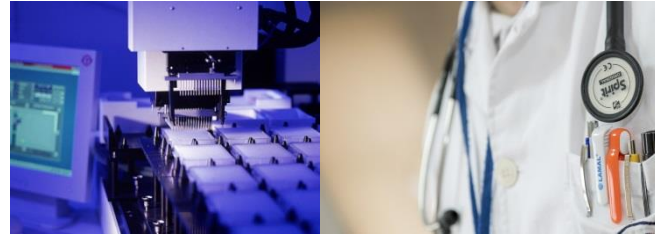

Number of millions of new infections of leishmaniasis every year

Number of millions of people at risk of human African trypanosomiasis

Number of people worldwide affected by these diseases

There is clearly an urgent need to develop safer and more effective chemotherapies to reduce this disease burden.

Everyone wanting to contribute to the eradication of these diseases can help by supporting the KINDReD Association.
